The Mathematics

fortnightly Mathematics newspaper

INFORMATION DETAILS

The beauty of Mathematics is reflected in the tangible and non-tangible representations of nature. Nature's harmony and balance, symmetry and patterns, space and structure, from nothing to everything is written in a divine mathematical language. 'The Mathematics' is an endeavour of JMMCRF to provide glimpses of this vast enigmatic mathematical world to the student fraternity and help them indulge in a rare mathematical culture. It would not only help students in connecting math skills to the real world but also sharpen their competitive spirit. A student's capacity to think and analyze a problem plays a pivotal role in their lives which is being dampened by modern technology and AI. In this present world where all answers are just a click away our future generations are becoming increasingly dependent on modern technology. 'The Mathematics' provides them the fuel for thought and that extra edge that would make them stand out. This will enhance their CURIOSITY - the key thing for the future generation. The more we ask and learn, the better AI will perform for us. Each question, each additional prompt, reveals something that we can then use our uniquely human skills to address. Our capacity to question, think, and critically analyze are all necessary functions to find the best results.
